Program Resource Planning Process

Dean Instruction and Strategic Program Dev 2021

1.1a Mission

The mission of Instruction and Strategic Program Development is three fold:

- To provide students with the highest quality educational opportunities with culturally relevant and diverse general education courses to prepare them for transfer or degree completion,
- Build a sustainable institution for the future through diversified funding sources,
- Through management of a Federal grant program: Provide education resources and support to Seasonal Farmworkers, assisting them in completing their high school education and matriculating into higher education and vocational training programs.

1.1b Mission Alignment

The mission of ISPD is alignment with the districts mission and vision statement adopted in 2013. "Passionately cultivates learning through the creative, intellectual, social, emotional, aesthetic and ethical development of our diverse community" by providing a diverse and culturally relevant lower division education for transfer and/or degrees, and developing new funding resources to allow the district to respond to the changing demographics and needs of the community. ISPD also supports the college's goal of providing lifelong learning to seasonal agricultural workers and their families through the HEP program. This program works with seasonal agricultural workers and their families by helping complete their high school equivalency and matriculate into college or career technical education programs.

1.1c Description

The Dean of Instruction oversees four unique elements at SRJC:

1. As Dean of Instruction serving faculty and students in the departments of Behavioral Sciences (Anthropology, Psychology and Sociology), Social Sciences (Economics, History and Political Science), and the SRJC Multi-Cultural Museum.
2. Grant Development to strengthen and diversify the district's funding base through federal, state and private foundation grants.
3. Director of High School Equivalency Program (HEP) – a federally funded program, working with seasonal agricultural workers and their families, to help them complete their high school equivalency and matriculate into college or career technical education programs.
4. Special initiatives as designated by the VPAA (I.e. Dual Enrollment, Weekend College) Working in tandem, these items are all focused on providing a diverse student population with the highest quality educational opportunities while building a sustainable institution for the future.

1.2 Program/Unit Context and Environmental Scan

General Overview: Instructional

- In 2017-2018, departments in this cluster (Behavioral and Social Sciences) served 16,303 students college wide (duplicated head count) and 11,474 students (again, duplicated head count) at the Santa Rosa campus in Fall 2017. In 2017-2018, 36.1% of the AA degrees awarded by SRJC were from a major in this cluster (a total of 699). In Fall 2017, with cancellations not included, this cluster offered 289 sections with 188 of those in Santa Rosa. In the Spring 2018, with cancellations not included, this cluster offered 253 sections with 157 of those in Santa Rosa. In Summer 2018, with cancellations not included, this cluster offered 90 sections with 31 of those in Santa Rosa. Annually in 2017-2018, with cancellations not included, this cluster offered 614 sections with 376 of those in Santa Rosa. This generated 1676 FTES annually. The cluster includes several Extended lecture classes, who generate 3 times the revenue to cost.

- There were 20 full time faculty in the Cluster in 2018-19 (including 4 full time positions at the Petaluma Campus) and 66 adjunct faculty, many of whom teach at both Santa Rosa and Petaluma.

General Overview Strategic Program Development

- Dual enrollment

General Overview HEP

- SRJC's HEP program has opened 4 new partnership sites: Sonoma Valley partnership with La Luz Center and the Sonoma Valley School District. Two sites in Napa Valley, in partnership with Family Resource Centers and 1 in Cloverdale in partnership with the Catholic Church. This partnership has brought 4 GED class to the larger area.
- HEP has expanded into Napa Valley and is working with Napa Adult School to provide HSE/GED prep classes in Napa for migrant adults and families.

2.1a Budget Needs

The budget for the Dean Instruction and Strategic Program Development (DISPD) is small, covering the salary and office overhead (phones, supplies) and limited travel or discretionary funds. Past grant development work has provided additional revenue which has been used to augment needs in the area.

The budget also has to stretch to cover emergency needs in the Behavioral and Social Sciences and Multi-Cultural Museum.

There is no historical information on cost as a % to the district or past savings to the district.

2.2d Adequacy and Effectiveness of Staffing

Emeritus Service Center:

Staffed by a 1.45 FTEF admin staff, currently support 5 departments and over 50 FT faculty. The planned retirement of the .45 FTEF will create a need for replacement. This second position supports curriculum process for 15+ disciplines in the area in addition to supporting the service center operations.

No Dean's office Administrative Assistant III: The dedicated AAIII position to ISPD was eliminated when staff promoted to another district position as a part of current District cost saving measures. Requesting allocation of a dedicated AAIII to the ISPD Cluster from an existing District position will help with administration of required tasks such as evaluations, budgets, grant reporting, department support/oversight, grant submission, faculty PAF's, curriculum support etc.

The loss of this position has placed some projects, work items in delay - or a reliance on asking for help from other Dean's Admin staff. Many items have been put on hold or not completed. (e.g website out of date)

The Office of the Dean of Instruction currently has no dedicated Admin Assistant, who supports the oversight of different components:

1. Social and Behavioral Sciences, Child Development academic cluster
2. Grant Development - federal grants for district.

3. Grant fiscal management, oversight and processing of expenses, PAF's and budget development for federal grants in the area.
4. HEP Program
5. Community and Contract Education

The AAll position assisted with the following:

Curriculum support for Behavioral and Social Sciences, Child Development

Faculty tenure, adjunct and full time evaluations processing.

Grant research, support of grant proposal development.

Federal grant reporting

Contracts, tracking of partnership agreements, schedule change forms.

Dean's budget development, tracking, and processing of invoices/purchase orders.

Department website maintenance, forms, and online data collection.

Maintain grants listing, database of current and past grants.

HiSET testing administration, test reconciliation, and reconciliation of test fees.

Budget development and maintenance for assigned federal grants (HSU/HSI, S-STEM, HEP, CBRESE)

Calendar maintenance for Dean (setting up meetings, minutes for grant meetings, etc.)

3.2 Serve our Diverse Communities

The Dean of Instruction and Strategic Planning's office oversees several programs that bring nontraditional students to SRJC as well as overseeing majors that reflect our diverse student population.

1. In the last few years, we added the following majors to our department reflecting the needs of our student population:
 - Native American Studies AA
 - Social Justice AA-T with sub specialties of: Latino/Chicano Studies, Women's Studies, African American Studies.
2. HEP: Over the course of 7 years, the HEP program has enrolled over 250 seasonal farmworkers in credit classes at Santa Rosa Junior College. This student population ranges in age from 18 to late 50's and are primarily English language learners.
3. The Jesse Peter Multi Cultural Museum: the Museum has featured exhibits reflecting the diversity of our college and community, including a special exhibit celebrating the 100th Anniversary of SRJC and 80th birthday of the Museum. Collections in the Museum recently underwent an overhaul and expanded to be truly multi-cultural and encompass all points on the globe. The Museum supports the curriculum throughout the College including History, Anthropology, Art, Sociology, and English. The Museum also collaborates with the Mahoney Library in Petaluma to provide rotating exhibits on the campus. The Museum also plays a supporting role for the Native American Celebration held annually at Day Under the Oaks. This event is under the leadership of Behavioral Sciences' Department Chair, Dr. Brenda Flyswithawks.
4. The Dean and AA were a central part of this year's EEOAC Climate and Diversity Survey, working with students, student leaders, and others to assist in the first Districtwide Survey of Faculty, Classified, Management, and Students in the history of SRJC.

3.3 Cultivate a Healthy Organization

Ensuring staff have the opportunity for personal and professional development, annually classified staff set up goals with the Dean and plan for future training. This past year 3 employees in the area (1 from: HEP, AA, Museum Manager) were selected to be in the Leadership Academy. Other professional development has included taking classes for career development, fitness and skill building. As a part of the HEP grant, staff participate in webinars, regional meetings and National conference workshops focused on the population they serve.

Faculty and staff are supported and encouraged to participate in professional development programs and wellness initiatives sponsored by the District.

3.4 Safety and Emergency Preparedness

Josh Adams is Bailey's Safety and Emergency Preparedness representative.

3.5 Establish a Culture of Sustainability

Current practices are:

1. Double sided printing of all documents when printing is required.
2. Networked to shared printer and copy machine.
3. On line collaboration in grant projects, reducing printing and paper waste.

4. Paper is recycled to one of 2 places: Tutorial Center for scratch paper or through campus recycling.

Promote social equity:

The HEP program, working with seasonal and agricultural workers is focused on helping build a stronger and economically stable student and workforce. Through participation in the program, students earn their High School Equivalency certificate and matriculate into college, improve employment or earn a vocational certificate. Past students have reported moving up in their jobs from being vineyard crew members to being the crew manager or going from a clerk at minimum wage to becoming a personal banker at Wells Fargo. Their successful transition from hourly or piece work in agriculture to year round employment with benefits is a success hallmark of this program. Other students have matriculated into college and enrolled in academic or CTE programs. This program is one of the best examples of SRJC promoting and encouraging social equity and sustainability.

4.1a Course Student Learning Outcomes Assessment

The Dean of Instruction and Strategic Program Development Cluster is deeply committed to student learning and student success for the two instructional departments under its aegis, which are Behavioral Sciences and Social Science.

The Dean's Office oversees the Cluster Curriculum Technical Review Committee. The Dean co-chairs this committee and it meets twice monthly.

As of June 2019, all courses have identified SLOs.

More specific data about SLOs and assessments are contained in departmental PRPPs.

5.0 Performance Measures

In order to continue the diversification of district resources, the office of DISPD held a Grants 101 Workshop with Hanover Research in the Spring of 2019 open to all district employees. In addition, the grants website has been re-structured to allow for easier access and improve utilization.

For 2017-Present the office of DISPD has the following plans for grant submission:

- Title V Grant (In process)
- CCAMPIS (Submitted, pending)
- TRiO (Planned)
- LiteracyWorks (Planned)
